Truman Home To Vote

Plans No Speeches And No 'Political' Huddles; To Attend Birthday Party

By Ernest B. Vaccaro

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Aug. 2 (AP)—A White House spokesman declared flatly tonight that President Truman will take no further part in Missouri's fifth district turbulent congressional campaign beyond his endorsement of Enos A. Axtell.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told reporters a few hours after Mr. Truman's arrival here that he would "gamble 100 to 1 the President doesn't even see Mr. Axtell" while he is home to vote Tuesday.

INDEPENDENCE, Mo., Aug. 3—(AP)—Typical picnic dishes were on the menu for the family gathering of President and Mrs. Truman and relatives tonight in the adjoining backyards of Frank and George Wallace, the first lady's brothers.

The menu consisted of cold meats, salads, home-made buns, sliced tomatoes, cheese, ice tea and ice cream and cake.

The President told a recent Washington news conference that he was opposed to the renomination of Roger C. Slaughter, Democratic fifth district representative, because of the latter's opposition to administration proposals. At that time he said he favored the nomination of Axtell, a former lieutenant commander in the navy.

Position Unchanged

Ross, in a brief conference with newspaper men, told them that the President's position had not changed respecting Axtell but that he did not come home to campaign.

He said Mr. Truman planned no speeches and no "political huddles."

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 3—(AP)—Missouri's primary election next Tuesday, saved from dullness by President Truman's intervention in the hot fifth congressional district race, may call out no more than a half million votes.

As the campaign drew to a close Secretary of State Wilson Bell, the man who counts the ballots, noted widespread apathy except in Kansas City's Democratic squabble. He said there appeared to be few close local contests of the kind generally relied on as big vote producers.

Bell predicted the total Democratic vote in the state might not be more than 200,000, compared with 336,000 for governor in the 1944 primary and 305,000 for state superintendent —the only office at stake—in the last off-year primary in 1942.

He came primarily to vote Tuesday in the neighboring fourth district in which Slaughter is not a candidate, and to attend a birthday party tomorrow for his mother-in-law, Mrs. David W. Wallace, who will be 84, Ross said.

A Major Issue

Whatever the President's course while here, he has been made a major issue in the campaign by Slaughter and Jerome Walsh, the third candidate in the fifth district race.

There was little evidence of the undercurrent of campaign bitterness as he greeted hundreds of friends and neighbors on the spacious lawn in front of his old frame home at 219 North Delaware Street.

The campaign touch, however, was provided by the presence in the home-coming crowd of James Pendergast, head of the Kansas City political faction, who has teamed up with the President in an efofrt to defeat Representative Roger C. Slaughter of the neighboring fifth district in next Tuesday's Democratic primary.

Pendergast has thrown his strength behind Enos Axtell, the choice of the President, himself a fourth district voter, and of the CIO-Political Action Committee.

Many Visitors

The third candidate is Jerome Walsh, who has joined Slaughter in expressing resentment over Presidential intervention in the campaign.

Mr. Truman told a recent news conference he favored Axtell, that he had talked with Pendergast in his behalf, and that Slaughter had opposed his program as a member of the house rules committee.

The President chatted briefly with Pendergast, but there was no inkling of what they said as the crowd gathered for the informal reception surged around them.

In a few minutes, a line had formed and the President found himself shaking hands with scores of men, women and children. He knew most of them, called most of the men by their first names.

He had just come over from Grandview where he had a 15-minute visit with his mother, Mrs. Martha E. Truman, aged 93, immediately after he and Mrs. Truman landed at the Grandview airport following a flight from Washington in the Presidential plane, the "Sacred Cow."

GI's Seize Vote Reins

An expensive, recent model auto is almost completely demolished during the shooting and rioting around McMinn County jail, Athens, Tenn., where ballot boxes were taken for counting of votes. Bi-partisan all-GI ticket challenged the Democratic organization whose deputies had moved the boxes. Car reportedly belonged to erstwhile deputy. (NEA Telephoto).

Truck Driver Narrowly Escapes Death

Truck Crashes Into Flat Creek Bridge, Overturned, Burned

Joseph M. Zelk, 31 years old, RFD 4, Independence, Mo., narrowly escaped death about 6:15 o'clock Saturday morning, when the 1939 Ford ton and a half truck he was driving, crashed into the Flat Creek bridge, overturned and burned.

Zelk stated to officers he could not remember whether a tire blew out or he went to sleep as he approached the bridge. The truck knocked the east railing off the bridge and as it approached the steel girder which supports the bridge, it ran up the girder and flopped back on the bridge, a mass of wreckage.

Jess Paul, Roy Paul, his brother, Tom Paul a cousin and Tom Dillon, who were all at the home of Jess Paul, which is only a short distance from the bridge, rushed to the scene. They extracted Zelk from the wreckage and no sooner had they got him out than the cab burst into flames. Fire already had started on the motor and was burning through the floor of the cab when they reached him.

Traffic Tied Up

Traffic was tied up for more than an hour while the truck was a raging mass of flames. Elmer Arnold was called, and while the truck was still burning, pulled it off the bridge with a winch on his truck, opening the bridge to traffic. It was said more than $500 damages resulted to the bridge.

Zelk was taken to the Bothwell hospital where Dr. A. L. Walter treated him for slight cuts, bruises, and abrasions on his head, chest and arms.

Sergeant Fred Rodecker, of the State Highway Patrol, Officers George Riley and Elmer Bratton conducted an investigation.

Zelk told the officers that he had been in Arkansas visiting relatives and was headed north back home when the accident occurred.

Brush Stopped Fall

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 3— (AP) — Police reported a new way to escape death—toss yourself over a cliff.

Bradley Wayne, 24, taxi driver, told them three passengers robbed, then bound and gagged him on a hillside road, then announced they were going to kill him. So he rolled over the edge of a 200-foot precipice. Fifty feet down, brush stopped his fall. Nearby residents, hearing his screams, called police who hauled him to safety with a rope.

Gunman Admits He's Ashamed

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 3.—(AP) —A gunman who admitted he is "ashamed" of his work—and predicted he would be caught—took $18 today from Maidiros Kalidjian, 66-year-old shore repairman.

According to Kalidjian, the shabbily dressed Negro pointed a pistol, backed him into a yard behind the shop and rifled his pockets while being told "You ought to be ashamed of yourself, holding up an old man like me who only makes two or three dollars a day."

"I am ashamed," the man replied.

"I know I'll get caught. But there's nothing I can do about it, I can't get a job. This is the only way I know to make a living."

Then he handed back a quarter and walked away.

Six Killed In Plane Crash

LONG BEACH, Calif., Aug. 3—Six men, three of them Chinese were killed today when an Army B-25 bomber, en route from Enid, Okla., crashed and exploded a half mile from an ammunition dump.

Wreckage was scattered for many yards after the craft, groping through a fog, hit the side of a 20-foot irrigation ditch on a ranch, bounded into the air and was blown to bits.

A navy medical corpsman said: "I spent four years in the war and never saw a mess like this."

The army identified the victims as:

First Lt. Craig L. Charter, pilot, Whittier, Calif.; 1st Lt. Floyd E. Gorton, student officer, Santa Ana, Calif.; T/Sgt. Joseph A. Sears, Somerset, Ky.; Capt. Louis Feng, interpreter, and cadets Wen Lo Chen and Wan Jen Liu. All were stationed at Enid.

The craft was on a navigational hop when it crashed at 1:24 a. m. (Pacific Standard Time). A sheriff's deputy theorized that the pilot, who had passed over the army air base here a few minutes before and was circling for a landing, might have been confused by lights from a military radio range, near which it hit.

State Fair Is Only Two Weeks Away

Working Now To Have Everything In Readiness

With the opening date of the 1946 Missouri State Fair, to be held here August 18-25, only two weeks away, a corps of workmen are completing final preparations on buildings and grounds to have everything in readiness when fair visitors come to Sedalia for entertainment and relaxation, and to learn of the vast improvements during the war years in agriculture and agriculture machinery, industry, animal husbandry, new automobiles and new home appliances.

Twenty thousand premium catalogs, containing 268 pages of information about this year's fair, have been mailed this month, according to Roy S. Kemper, secretary. A copy will be sent free to anyone desiring information.

Fair Program

The fair program, in brief, will be as follows: Auto races on the opening Sunday, August 18, and on the following Saturday, August 24. Horse show, presented the opening night and Monday night, August 18 and 19, before the grandstand, and on the following four nights in the Coliseum. Harness races every afternoon before the amphitheater from Monday through Friday. Ernie Young Stage Revue, presented to the patrons of the amphitheater nightly from Tuesday through Saturday. Fireworks will follow every attraction before the grandstand at night. Thrill Show on the final Sunday afternoon and under the floodlights on the same Sunday night. The World of Today shows on the Midway throughout the eight days of the fair.

The grounds will be open to fair visitors at 8 o'clock each morning, as will all department and commercial exhibits. Over sixty high school bands will give daily performances, including a massed bands parade each morning and a massed bands concert each evening.

How To Vote The New Ballot

For the first time in Missouri primary elections the voter will be required to place an "X" in square before the name of the candidate for whom he desires to vote. Heretofore, in primary elections, the voter was required to scratch off all names except those the voter desired to vote for and, the voter was also permitted to write in a name if he chose, but on the new ballot there must be no writing or scratching, otherwise your ballot will be thrown out.

The new section, No. 11560, also provides that, "If an elector write upon his ticket the names of any person who is a candidate for the same office upon some other ticket than that upon which his name is written, this ballot shall not be counted for such person." On primary day the voter will be handed the party ticket he asks for. The voter will not be given more than one ticket—meaning that the voter will not be given the Democratic ticket and the Republican ticket, and then be allowed to discard one. DON'T put any pencil mark on your ballot other than an "X" in the square before the names of the candidates you desire to vote for. You must "X" the name of each candidate you wish elected.

Reds Obtained Secret U. S. Documents

Three Recently Released Engaged In 'Clandestine Activity'

By Richard A. O'Regan

FRANKFURT, Germany, Aug. 3—(AP)—The U. S. army announced tonight that two of the three Russian soldiers recently released by U. S. authorities in Berlin had forced German employes of the army to deliver secret American documents and had engaged in "clandestine activities" in the U. S. sector.

At the same time in Berlin, the three soldiers in question charged that they were "treated like criminals" during their detention in the American zone, and that the Americans attempted to force one of them "to betray his country and become an American citizen."

Brig. Gen. Edwin L. Sibert, chief of U. S. intelligence in Europe, said the two officers, Lts. Sedov and Schulkin, were wearing civilian clothing when they and their driver, Pvt. Kuznetsov, were arrested in the American sector of Berlin. Sibert said these were the charges:

Charges

"Forcing German employes of the U. S. Army to deliver classified documents and information about the U. S. Army and its policies.

"Possessing inadequate documents authorizing their stay in the U. S. sector of Berlin."

An intelligence officer said he elieved the Russians "had tried to get information regarding the disposition of American troops and the organization of units."

It was understood that the Russians had been picked up as a result of a tip from a German fraulein. The German girl reportedly was working for the army's intelligence division and gave the officers information that resulted in the arrest of the three Russians.

The driver was held for "acting as an accessory to the illegal activities of Sedov and Schulkin."

Exchange Releases

The three Russians were released July 17 by U. S. authorities, apparently in exchange for the release of an American couple held in the Russian zone, Warrant Officer and Mrs. Samuel L. Harrison of San Santonio, Tex., who had been detained 15 days by the Russians for unauthorized entry into the sector.

Sibert's statement said that during their interrogation by American authorities, the Russians "withhold information to which the United States authorities were entitled and which would have established their true identity."

"Furthermore," the statement said, "the technical knowledge of the two officers did substantiate the cover stories for their activities."

The "allegations that U. S. authorities tried to enlist Lt. Sedov and Lt. Schulkin for service against the Red army and the U. S. S. R. are incorrect," the army said, referring to an interview with the two officers published today in the Soviet-controlled Berliner Zeitung.

States now needing additional nursing help, the Red Cross said in a statement, are: Minnesota, South Dakota, Kansas, Oklahoma, Illinois, Teaxs, Missouri, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama and Florida.

The agency said the public health service has listed polio cases in every state except Nevada and Rhode Island.

Favor Joint Religious Action On Solving World Problems

By GLENN WILLIAMS

LONDON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Protestant leaders of eight nations disclosed today they favored joint action on world problems by protestants and Roman Catholics, based upon "some kind of satisfactory understanding at the highest level, presumably between the World Council of Churches and the Vatican."

Replies to a questionnaire on policy of the world council pointed up a protestant plan to seek collaboration with the Roman Catholic church in putting a world Christian viewpoint on peace problems before the setatesmen of the world. The announcement said that, unless some high level agreement was reached, the extent of cooperation would fluctuate "with changing personalities and you never know where you are."

The views were released by Dr. Walter W. Van Kirk of New York, secretary of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, who came here with a dozen other American leaders to attend a four day conference of international church leaders, under the sponsorship of the world council. The meeting opens tomorrow at Cambridge.

The questionnaire was answered by representatives of protestant bodies from the United States, England, Scotland, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Denmark and the Netherlands. In order to encourage candid replies, names were not disclosed.

Ireland Ready To Accept U. N. Charter

Another Request Is Expected From Iceland

By Larry Hauck

NEW YORK, Aug. 3—(AP)—Ireland applied tonight for membership in the United Nations, becoming the fifth country to take such action since the world agency got under way its 51 charter members.

The application came in a terse cable from Prime Minister Eamon De Valera, who said "Ireland is prepared to accept the obligations contained in the Charter of the United Nations."

Another request was expected momentarily from Iceland. Bids from Albania, Outer Mongolia, Afghanistan and Trans-Jordan already are under consideration by a Security Council Committee.

De Valera acted under a recent unanimous vote in the Irish parliament and said at the time that Great Britain would support the bid. A British spokesman here tonight confirmed that fact and there was no indication of any opposition to the request.

Might Stay Out Of War

The prime minister said he believed Ireland would have a better chance of avoiding future war by joining the U. N., which he described as "not so valuable as it might be, but the best that can be got at the moment."

Ireland did not take part in World War II.

The Irish application came in the midst of considerable wrangling in the membership committee over procedure in handling the request. Several delegations, including the U. S. and Great Britain, indicated they would oppose a final vote on the first applicant— Albania —pending study of all the others. Some delegates expressed belief that Russia might insist on an early ballot.

Belgian Assails Big Four

For Ignoring Smaller Nations In Preparing Europe's Peace

By Lynn Heinzerling

PARIS, Aug. 3—(AP)—Paul Henri Spaak of Belgium assailed the big four today for ignoring the smaller nations in preparing Europe's peace and for asking the smaller powers for recommendations only after severely handicapping them.

The outburst from the President of the United Nations General Assembly highlighted the day's proceedings in the peace conference.

In another phase of the battle between the big and small powers, the big four won out by a vote of 12 to 8 when the all-powerful rules committee approved a decision to rotate the conference chairmanship.

Meanwhile, Greece demanded slices of Bulgarian and Albanian territory and served notice on the peace conferences that she expects reparations for the "material damage inflicted upon the country" by Italy and other invaders.

Bitter Attack

Spaak, in a bitter attack on the big powers, said:

"The great powers meet together among themselves. They prepare treaties without consulting us; they attempt to impose upon us rules of voting which, in practice, prevent us from securing acceptance for our points of view; the place before us the painful dilemma of accepting—sometimes against our own judgment—what they have drawn up or else destroying an agreement that has been achieved only with difficulty, and then, finally, having thus handicapped us, they ask us to make them a few recommendations."

The Belgian, however, hailed as "the most important" declaration of the conference U. S. Secretary of State James F. Byrnes' promise "to sustain those recommendations made by a two-thirds majority."

"If the other big powers, in addition to their promises of free and complete discussion, are willing to accept a similar engagement, it seems to me the atmosphere would suddenly clear and that our work here would get under way in happy circumstances," Spaak said.

Must Not Be Suspicious

"The big powers must not be suspicious of us. We are not here seeking to impose measures or opinions but to find the best formula for a just and stable peace."

The peace of the world, he declared, depended on "a good understanding between the great powers and it is the duty of all to contribute toward this understanding."

The Russians have insisted upon the two-thirds rule. Three days ago Byrnes said he would support it. Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Australian minister of external affairs and champion of the small nations, became the spearhead of opposition, favoring a simple majority.

Constantine Tsaldaris, prime minister and chief of the Greek delegation called upon the conference to ratify the decision of the four-power Foreign Ministers Council restoring the formerly Italian-owned Dodecanese Islands to Greece.

A Cherished Link with the Past
"Old Ironsides," a ship of practically no intrinsic value, is preserved because she personifies the finest traditions of the U. S. Navy. She is a cherished link with a glorious past.
Such is the high value we Americans place upon sentiment and our desire to pay tribute to those who have gone before. Because sentiment is valued so highly, the refinements of McLaughlin Service have been developed to fulfill this purpose.

"Did You Hear The Latest Rumor?—

Crazy with the heat, midsummer madness, call it what you may there is a community disease prevalent at the moment competing for attention with other summer complaints.

The current epidemic is one of ever recurring rumors involving manufacturers, business houses, and individuals. How or where they start is difficult to track down.

Some of the stories being kicked around actually border on slander. One person is positive a rumor is true because so-and-so, a dear friend, told it. Usually the dear friend in telling a rumor requests the listener" not to tell a soul;" then the listener can't wait until getting to a telephone to call friends and say: "Have you heard the latest."

Petty gossip in the retelling is almost irresistible.

One of the little known services of a newspaper is not so much to track down the source of rumors as to kill them by finding out the truth, usually contacting direct the parties mentioned. Occasionally a legitimate story is uncovered without the insidious trappings of the magnified rumor; more often it is learned the rumor has no basis of fact whatsoever.

Mercury and Prices Up Together—

Let's see. It hasn't been more than a couple of weeks since the cracker barrel experts were vociferously clamoring for return of the abandoned OPA to stop the wild flurry of increasing prices of merchandise.

Now the ten-day-old reinstated OPA is growing in stature and almost every day issues bulletin announcements of price increases, among the latest an 11 per cent increase in retail ceilings for men's shirts, shorts and pajamas; and an additional increase of up to 10 per cent, on top of the 11 per cent, for men's and boys' dress shirts and boys' sport shirts in lower price brackets, etc., etc.

Additional clothing increases, estimated by some OPA officials at from 15 per cent to 20 per cent, will be granted later under terms of the price revival law.

The public has a horror of allowing the law of supply and demand to adjust price scales, but drugged by war-time bureaucratic controls smiles happily when the increases come by governmental edict.

O-PAppa!

Commandments A Guide To Peace—

Reference to the Ten Commandments as precepts for world peace in connection with comment on Ray Lippard's recent talk on World Government, brings this additional comment from Mr. Lippard:

"We have approximately 140,000,000 population in this country and I would be willing to gamble pretty heavily that there isn't 5 per cent of that number who could quote any one of the Ten Commandments, but 95 per cent of the people of this country lives by the commandments because the mass mind of the people of this country has been inoculated with the moral principles set forth in the commandments. If we could inculcate the mass mind of the peoples of the world so that they would automatically respond to moral precepts and civil laws as the populace of this country does, we would have a pretty secure foundation on which to build world government and world peace."

I don't know how accurate Mr. Lippard is on his percentage comparisons but I suspect he uses it with free license to get his point across that very few people could recite all or half the commandments. If asked to do so most of us with a hem and a haw would think of a few and reply: "Well, let me see—you must not steal, kill, or commit adultery; keep the Sabbath holy and honour your father and mother."

All of these commandments are good moral laws, but the Paris peace conference could be concluded in a hurry without long drawn out verbal bitterness over conflicting opinions on how to obtain peace if the delegates would just adopt one commandment as a guide for all the peoples of the world and try to get the people to live up to it:

"Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house, thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife, nor his manservant, nor his maidservant, nor his ox, nor his ass, nor anything that is thy neighbor's."

Unrestrained covetousness has been and still is the stumbling block to world peace, and usually precedes the impulse to kill and steal. Eliminate covetousness, killing and stealing; then Molotov wouldn't have much left to argue about.

How To Live Long and Peacefully—

While pouring out purifying propositions to make the people peaceful, I ran across this item:

"Every parent can give his children an advantage that will be of great value throughout life. Let him teach his children to modulate their voices, and to learn to sit relaxed and still. If these two assets are acquired they will be distinguished in company, and will live long and peaceful lives."

Parents past 40 will acclaim this a practical policy to restrain ebullient youth. But just try persuading restless children to sit relaxed and still on the promise of living long and peaceful lives. If you enforced such a rule you might develop some stone-faced progenies who would make the atmosphere around your front room reminiscent of a mausoleum. And the kids would be sneaking off every chance they have to go across town to a friend's home where they could whoop it up.

By nature children are noisy as long as they can be until the hour of retirement and when older folks object to their boisterousness, juveniles question the consistency of the adults who go to bed early, get up at six o'clock and turn on the radio blasting the teen-agers out of their beauty sleep.

And so the conflict between adult and juvenile behavior goes on endlessly; but the sun comes up as it usually does, the roosters crow, the flowers bloom, the tomatoes ripen, life goes on; yet someone is always interested in regulating it all to a standard pattern which, if it came to pass, would make life rather boresome, wouldn't it?

A Sip Of Wine With A Razor Nick—

Some of the wholesome customs of foreign peoples observed by our boys who served aboard may find a place in American life although Attorney William Brown and Ellsworth Green are loathe to believe any customs in India will be worth transplanting here.

It's too bad not many American boys went to Turkey where a fascinating custom exists. According to James E. Hungerford in Coronet magazine, in modern Turkey many barber shops feature food concessions operated by chefs who prepare snacks for customers. Probably a hangover from the practice of sixth century Italian barbers who served tidbits to waiting customers; and when a patron received a razor cut he was given his shave free, plus a small flask of wine to console him. Here's an idea for Sedalia barbers to work on!

Daughter Of Mine

By R. Louise Emery

Copyright, 1946, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Cecily's wedding is over at last, but never will I forget the cruel thing I did to her. How can I explain to Corinna and Robert that they—my daughter and my husband—have been cheated all through the years for Cecily's sake? And that she wasn't worth it! Della? Della hates me for what I've done to Cecily's life.

II

You have to know Della before you can understand Cecily. Della always has had a fair cut of the world's goods, but some peasant strain in her still remembers a generation when a penny or a crust of bread meant life or death. She is the most unpredictable mixture of persimony and pound-foolishness I've ever met. She resigned from the Women's Club when they raised the price of their monthly luncheon from thirty-five to fifty cents. She said she couldn't afford to pay that much. She griped for weeks that time the P.-T.-A. asked her to donate two cakes for their sale to raise money for a Christmas party "honoring" the Marlin district children.

Della told me exactly how much she was out of pocket for those two cakes—and she figured in the amount of electricity used in the baking, and her time on a union wage scale. Then, when the cakes were auctioned off they sold for less than Della figured they had cost her—and of course the P.-T. A pocketed the money.

Della was so mad that she gave a party herself for the children from across Marlin street, just to show the P.-T. A. up. She was afraid to give it in her house because the kids might smash some of her lamps or scratch her furniture, so the youngsters came to our house.

Della had ordered ice cream in molds and two huge decorated cakes and there was an expensive toy for each guest as a favor. Of course there was a Christmas tree—a towering silver spruce, since the P.T. A. had bought a mere cheap pine for their party.

But in spite of all its trimmings the affair would never have gotten started if it hadn't been for Robert. Even our modest cottage awed the children from the hand-to mouth district, and the beautifully appointed table in the dining room made them ill at ease and somehow resentful. Cecily, eight years old, looked like the Sugar Plum fairy in a short frock that was all pink silk net ruffles and pale green satin ribbons. No one else — certainly not Corinna — wore anything remotely comparable to it.

The kids from across Marlin street wearing their scuffed shoes and pitiful patches, took one wild look around them, read the condescension on Della's countenance, and huddled with their cohorts near the door, planning to make a bolt for it. Only Robert's entrance with an armful of wood for the fireplace circumvented them.

They all knew Robert. He had organized clubs for their after-school hours and had talked the city council into buying a playground for them.

Before long he had all of Della's guests interested in the games he had planned for them. Even Cecily got in on London Bridge and had a hilarious time until the moment arrived for the final tug of war. Then Della took her out of the game for fear her dress would be torn.

Cecily started to cry and I bit down hard on my lips for fear of saying what was in my heart. Val saved the moment for us. He extended his hand to Cecily. "Come on," he invited, "we'll work a jigsaw puzzle in the game room Mr. Wynne lets us use."

Della opened her mouth to object as they started off together, but Robert called her to assist him with a new project and between us we kept her so busy all afternoon that Cecily was given a measuse of freedom. Robert was not as unobserving as he sometimes seemed.

Thanks to Robert's talents the party was a masterful success and the children were grateful. But although we told them that their gifts and goodies had come from Della, the youngsters all thanked Robert and me when the party was over. Della didn't like it and when an item appeared on the social page of the town newspaper the next day beginnings, "Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wynne were hosts at a children's Christmas party in their home yesterday"—and listing Della and Cecily among the guests she was furious.

* * *

She telephoned me immediately and accused me of having given the information to the paper.

"Good heavens, Della I never thought of such a thing," I said.

"It's migh'y funny!" Della declared. "You and Robert were taking credit for everything all afternoon—I suppose it would do Robert some good around town if people thought he had enough money to give a party like that."

"Don't be childish, Della." I wanted to shake her. "Robert's position doesn't depend on the social page."

"Who else do you think would be interested in putting in a notice?" she demanded.

"Probably the mother of one of the children," I said. "Wanting to see her youngster's name in print."

"Then you certainly must have given the mothers the impression that you were paying for everything," Della insisted.

"You sent the invitations," I reminded, tempted to slam the receiver down.

"Have you called the paper to tell them what a boner they made?" Della asked. "That's the least you could do if you really wanted to be honest and square about it."

Anger welled up in me until the blood sang in my ears. "What difference can it possibly make?"

"It makes a difference to me," Della retorted. "I wanted Myrtle Ralston to see that notice."

"Then YOU gave it to the paper," I said.

"I didn't give it the way it was printed," Della denied angrily. "Somebody evidently called in and had my information changed."

"Della." I tried to control my exasperation. "Nobody else called in. Reporters get so many stories in a day that they can't just remember all the details. Somebody wrote the story in a hurry, saw that the party was held at our house and assumed—"

"Well, I'm good and burned up about it!" Della said. "I sent all that money just to show Myrtle Ralston that that I don't have to raise money from other people's cakes when I want to throw a party—and you get all the credit for it."

The Atom and Private Enterprise

How a Firm Gets in Business In New Atomic Energy Field

Young man with an atomic future is William E. Barbour, Jr., who's the moving spirit behind Tracerlab, Boston firm that's a pioneer in the private "atom business." Here the ex-Army major explains his company's "Autoscaler" for measuring radio-activity.

(Editor's Note: This is the second of two dispatches on the "atomic energy" business" by the chief of NEA's Washington Bureau, whose articles last December on "Atomic Power in Peace" won him the Sigma Delta Chi journalistic fraternity award for outstanding Washington correspondence.)

* * *

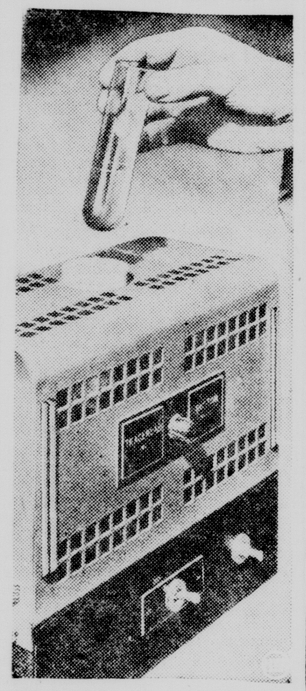

By Peter Edson
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Typical of the way in which a company gets into business in the new atomic energy field is the experience of Tracerlab, Inc., of Boston, Mass.

It was incorporated last March with $35,000 capital. The eight incorporators own all the stock. They have their own building, a four-story affair at 55 Oliver street. They now have 15 employees. Three of them are taking courses as veteran trainees. None of these incorporators, incidentally, worked on the atomic bomb project.

Moving spirit of Tracerlab, Inc., is William E. Barbour, Jr., a Bachelor of Science graduate from Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He had been an engineer in radio manufacturing and instrumentation for eight years when the war caught up with him. Then he put in five years with the Army Air Forces, developing airborne radar. He was discharged a major. Now he's in the "atom business."

Associated with him is a group of men who worked with the Office of Scientific Research and Development on various radar problems, including R. P. Ghelardi, physicist of Holy Cross and

"Blinker" is one name for this instrument, one of the atomic by-products of Boston firm that's in the "atom business." This machine lights up when it detects presence of radio-activity.

M. I. T.: W. R. Gustafson, physicist from Kansas State and Washington University, St. Louis; Robert E. Luick, legal counsel; Homer S. Myers, another Kansas State chemist, and John B. Niles, a mathematician from University of Washington. In addition Dr. Wendell C. Peacock, physicist, who has been working on radio-active detection since 1942, and Dr. Robley D. Evans, M. I. T. physicist and leader in the field of tracer research even before the war, plus a group of medical and chemical specialists are retained as consultants. This is no business for dumbbells.

Started on Instruments

Tracerlab, Inc., got into the business even before the Army's Manhattan District had announced that it would make radio-active isotopes available for research for commercial use.

The firm got going first on new instruments for the detection and measurement of radio-activity. Using a number of principles developed for radar work, Tracerlab is now manufacturing two new instruments.

One is the "Blinker" or a "Squawker" for the qualitative detection of radio-activity. It will sell for about $125.44 When a material containing radio-active substances is brought near the "blinker," lights flash. The "squawker" model merely makes a noise.

A typical use for this device is now being planned for an optical glass and lens manufacturer. He wants to mark his glass by putting into it an invisible quantity of artificially radio-active salts. With the use of this detector it would always be possible to identify glass from this manufacturer, and reject substitutes. The quantity of radio-active material would be so small that it would have no effect on the user of the glass.

Again, money could be marked with an invisible drop of radio-active salt solution. Any time anyone started to walk out with the radio-active marked bills, a burglar alarm could be sounded. Or the bills could be identified for a planted deal to catch a crook.

The second instrument developed by Tracerlab is an "Autoscaler," for quantitative analysis of radio-activity. It will sell for about $690.00. It will count the radiations from radio-active isotopes by measuring the time required for the reception of a given number of these radiations. It could measure the amount of radio-active iodine in the thyroid, or the amount of radio-activity introduced into the blood stream.

A Step Ahead

It can count random impulses up to 200,000 a minute.

These are only two of the instruments which Tracerlab plans to develop and market. They are by-products or supply house items for the new atomic energy industry. They do not themselves use radio-active materials, but they detect the radio-activity in materials to be tested. They are really a step ahead of the new field.

A line of safety devices that give warning of dangerous radio-activity in any area will follow.

Still more technical will be automatic analyzers which will print the count an any sample of radio-active material brought within the field of the instrument.

This specialty instrument stuff, however, will be only one of the activities of Tracerlab, Inc.

The second big branch of the business which Tracerlab hopes to get into is the operation of a chemical laboratory for routine analyses to determine radio-activity in materials. Clients for this part of the business would be hospitals and doctors who would submit samples of blood or urine for analyses. Other customers would be chemical and manufacturing companies in the Boston area wanting radio-analyses of the phosphorus content in steel, to cite merely one example.

Third Branch

The third branch of the business which Tracerlab will enter at a later period will be the preparation for ultimate users of standard, compounded "doses" of various radio-active materials. Development of this field will have to wait on the availibility of larger supplies of isotopes from the government for the account of commercial users.

In this business, Tracerlab and similar organizations would be acting as wholesalers. Their customers would be hospitals, medical laboratories and manufacturers using radioisotopes in their various lines of work. These customers would have the facilities to apply the materials, but not to process them.

For example, one customer might want some "eight-day iodine," meaning iodine that would have a "half-life" of eight days. Or "12-hour iodine" for use four days from date of order. In this capacity Tracerlab would act as a medical supply house, scheduling supplies for its customers.

These are only a few of the new lines in which this new atomic energy business may develop.

More than 400 man-made isotopes are now known. Only 100 of these are now being offered for limited use by the Manhattan Project. Over 500 users of these 100 isotopes are known already. Further research will unquestionably develop thousands of other uses. The size to which this new business may grow is today almost beyond comprehension. The "isotope pioneers" of today may be laying the foundations for business enterprises of tremendous proportions, though for the time being they will necessarily be limited in scope.

City Employes Have Right To Organize

Some Subjects Are Eliminated From Such Contract

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Aug. 3—(AP)—Missouri's new constitution grants municipal employes the right to organize and bargain collectively with their employer—the city government—Circuit Judge Warren L. White held today but—

Any agreement reached must be within the city's charter powers, and those powers are limited indeed.

For example—

The court specifically eliminated as subjects for city-union contract any pledge that a salary scale will be maintained for a set period of time, the payment of overtime for work in excess of the eight-hour day already established by law, and the closed shop.

No Objection

Judge White found no objection to the city's recognition of a labor union as the bargaining agent for those employes who are its members. He suggested, however, that any contract resulting from city-union negotiations should be "made directly between the city and the individual employes choosing to work it" because a union contract would not be enforceable by law.

Reaction of attorneys who received Judge White's decision shortly before noon was somewhat surprising.

Said Attorney William Moon for the union:s "We feel it is a very fair decision, a milestone of progress in the organization of labor."

Said city attorney Ted Beezley: "It is a clear-cut victory for the city."

Can Enter Into Contract

Moon stressed the court's decision that the "labor provision" of the new constitution applies to municipal employes. "The city can enter into a collective bargaining contract with its employes within certain limitations."

He planned to confer shortly with Clif Langsdale of Kansas City, attorney for the State Federation of Labor, and other state labor representatives, Moon said, "to draw up a contract of collective bargaining in conformance with the court's opinion, which will be presented to the City Council in the near future."

Attorney Beezley, informed of Moon' intent, said that he would withhold an opinion on the proposed contract until it is submitted, but, said Beezley, "if the judgmen of the court controls them, I don't know what kind of contract they would have."

Farewell Gift To Lou Banner

The Sedalia Life Underwriters Association met at noon Saturday at the Hotel Bothwell with President W. L. Reed ,presiding.

Guy Peabody made a farewell speech honoring Lou Banner who is leaving Sedalia on August 15th for Phoenix, Ariz., at which place he is to operate a general agency for the company he is now associated with. It was pointed out that Mr. Banner has always lived up to the high ideals of a life underwriter, has been a credit to the Sedalia Association, and a valuable asset to the community as a whole. Mr. Banner was presented a gift as a token of the high esteem held for him by the Association.

Ellsworth Green, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce was the guest speaker for the meeting and gave an enlightening and enthusiastic talk on "Getting Off Of Dead Center," and rolling forward with Forward Sedalia. Mr. Green pointed out that we already are making great strides in the right direction and that the Sedalia Life Underwriters could be influential in spreading the good word for a more progressive Sedalia.

Ruling On Training Pay

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 3—(AP)—In upholding a ruling by the Kansas City regional office, the National Wage Stabilization Board in Washington today adopted a policy it said it intended to prevent employers from using the Veterans Administration's training allowance to reduce wage payments to veteran trainees.

The national board sustained a ruling of the regional office rejecting a wage scale of the F. G. Smart Chevrolet Company of Pine Bluff, Ark.

The board's stand, being publicized nationally as indicative of its policy, is that no arrangement by an employer with the Veterans Administration to train veterans can set aside the board's requirement that the employer pay the trainee the prevailing wage for the type of work being done.

Money furnished the veteran by the VA, usually $65. a month for single vets and $90 for married ones, is not to be regarded as wages but as a subsistence allowance, the board declared, adding that any other interpretation would mean that the government subsistence would become a benefit to the employer rather than to the veteran.

Budget Review Tells Why Cut Is Necessary

Government Cut Will Aid Business And Consumers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Tacked on at the end of President Truman's budget review is a table that tells why the government feels it must chop down federal spending.

Called "the government's budget and the nation's budget," it shows that consumers were saving at a rate of $10,800,000,000 annually more than they were spending, in the first half of this year.

Like consumers, state and local governments were taking in more than they were putting out—by $1,300,000,000 a year.

The other two big segments of the economy—business and the federal government—were spending more than they were getting. Business was laying out $10,400,000,000 more than it was receiving, and the federal government was running at a deficit rate of $1,700,000,000 annually.

Added together, the "spenders"—federal government and business exactly balance the "saver"—consumers and local governments. That's because somebody takes in every dollar that somebody else spends.

Would Like To Spend More

Both business and consumers, and probably local governments, would like to spend more in the 1947 fiscal year just starting.

Consumers want to buy long-needed goods; business wants to invest, expand and build new factories; local governments want to get on with postponed public works.

If they do spend more, they will increase inflationary pressures. Because goods and materials are scarce, the spending pressure would have to vent itself in higher prices, the administration feels, unless—

First, price controls are continued as an artificial brake;

Second, the federal government cuts down its own spending and urges local governments to do likewise.

If the government could cut its own spending by, say, $2,000,000,000, then consumers and business could increase theirs by like amount. The balance would be preserved without new pressure for higher prices.

Three Killed, One Injured

GREENSBORO, N. C., Aug. 3—(AP)—Three persons were killed, one critically injured, three others seriously hurt, and at least 12 more were hospitalized in two related traffic accidents early this afternoon on the Greensboro-High Point highway six miles from downtown Greensboro.

The three dead, the one critically injured and one of the others hurt were in an automobile which was in collision with a transport truck.

The others injured were passengers on a Charlotte-To-Raleigh Trailways bus which overturned when the driver applied brakes to stop at the scene of the first accident.

Charge Peace Disturbance

William Biggs, 315 East Third street, was arrested Saturday night at his home on a charge of disturbing the peace of neighbors, during a family quarrel. Biggs was also accused of hitting his twenty-five year old wife over the head with a chair when she refused to give him several war bonds.

Mrs. Biggs was given emergency treatment at the family home by Sergeant Cecil Smith of the police department, and then sent to the Bothwell hospital where a head wound was treated by Dr. E. C. Snavely. Stitches were necesary to close the wound.

Biggs is held in the city jail.

Predicts Bad Meat Famine

PAWHUSKA, Okla., Aug. 3—(AP)—H. H. Mundy, president of the joint Livestock Committee, Inc., today predicted the nation will have its worst meat famine in history in 1947 unless the livestock industry is assured of discontinuance of OPA controls.

"Livestock producers and feeders will continue to flood the market with all their animals unless this assurance is forthcoming," he said. "If the breed stock of the nation's herds is sold, it will take from two to three years to build another supply of meat for the U. S."

Mundy said that he and a committee of livestock men would go before President Truman's decontrol board in Washington on August 14 to urge that the livestock industry be taken out from under the "whims of OPA bureaucrats."

Complete Plan For Training In Farming

Instructor Moves Here From Columbia To Open Classes

Arrangements have been completed with the Adult Education Service of the University of Missouri for the establishment of a center in Sedalia whereby veterans of Pettis county may receive on-the-job training in farming.

A. N. Miller has been selected for instructor-supervisor for the Sedalia center. Mr. Miller is making arrangements to move here from Columbia and will soon be located in the high school building. In the meantime any veterans interested in the program should get in touch with either Mr. Fiddler, local contact man for the Veterans Administration, 501½ South Ohio avenue, or Mr. Stacy, state service officer for Pettis county, with offices in the court house. Either of these men can help fill out the necessary papers.

Twenty-Two Enrolled

Miller will start Monday, August 5, calling on the twenty-two men already enrolled in order to get approval of their respective farms as satisfactory training units. Final approval of the farms will be made by Miller, J. U. Morris, county extension agent, and the Pettis county agricultural committee.

Classes will be held two nights a week, beginning September 1. Payments will be made to veterans participating in the program on the basis of $90.00 per month for married veterans, and $65.00 per month for unmarried ones.

To qualify for the program a veteran must either operate a farm or be employed by a farmer and take the training.

Demands An Investigation

DETROIT, Aug. 3—(AP)—Walter P. Reuther, president of the CIO United Auto Workers, demanded today that the senate Mead committee investigate the "factors responsible for low production in the auto industry.

Declaring such an investigation was "essential to the welfare of the American economy," Reuther said the UAW-CIO "recommends" that the inquiry cover, among others, these points:

1. Reasons for shortages of basic materials and "maldistribution" of such materials.

2. "Monopoly controls" which he said were exercised by General Motors, Chrysler and Ford in matters of production labor relations and public relations."

3. Effect of the carry-back provisions of tax laws "as an incentive to defer production" from 1946 to 1947, "when profits may be collected x x x without sacrifice of tax refunds."

4. "The possibility" that high automobile prices "encourage low volume production," Reuther says prices were set by OPA "for the purpose of assuring normal profits" at production "far below capacity."

Recognition Of Nat'l Guard

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 3—(AP)—Missouri is the first state in the country to have federal recognition for a unit of its re-activated National Guard, Brig. Gen. John A. Harris said today.

The 57th wing of the National Guard, organized last month in St. Louis under command of Brig. Gen. Winston W. Kratz, is the only unit yet to be approved by the army, General Harris said in making public a congratulatory message from President Harry S. Truman.

In his message the President said "this x x x is tangile evidence of Missouri's appreciation of the imperative necessity of always strengthening the national defense."

Three other units are being activated now and two infantry regiments will be formed within the next two months.

Ask Moratorium On New Public Works

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—President Truman has asked Reconversion Director Steelman to issue a directive providing for a 60-day moratorium on new federal public works and contractural obligations.

The moratorium will expire Oct. 1 and thereafter there will be a screening of federal construction programs before any new commitments of federal funds can be made.

The move is part of the President's efforts to trim expenditures under his revised budget made public tonight. The actual directive is expected to be made public Monday.

Miller County Fair Postponed

ELDON, Mo., Aug. 3.—(AP)—The Miller County Fair, scheduled to open Monday, was postponed by the fair board tonight "owing to the impending spread of poliomyelitis" and "in accordance with a warning by the state board of health."

J. R. Thompson, vice president of the board, said that there were no cases of the disease in Miller county, but that the action was taken because of a number of cases in neighboring counties. He said the fair might be held after frost, but an exact date has not been fixed.

Traffic Cases

Three overtime parking violators failed to appear in police court Saturday morning and the one-dollar cash bonds were ordered forfeited. They were Jax Whitaker, 519 West Broadway, two tickets; Victor Eisenstine, 900 West Fifth street; Guy Snyder, 520 South Park avenue.

Collections Not Counted On Will Help

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—(AP)—President Truman forecast tonight that a boom-time flood of tax collections he hadn't counted on before would wash out much of the deficit for the current fiscal year.

Thus he pinned his hopes of business prosperity and high level employment—which automatically brings higher tax collections—to better the heavily indebted government's position.

He bolstered those hopes with economy orders to federal agencies that could tighten the strings of the federal purse to the point of affecting veterans and the 48 states.

Boosting both revenue and spending estimates above the peacetime record figures he issued seven months ago, the President said it now appears the government will go into the red by $1,900,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1947.

Less Than He Foresaw

That is less than half the $4,500,000,000 deficit he foresaw last January, due mainly to sudden raising of receipts estimates by a solid $8,100,000,000 to an unprecedented peacetime total of $39,600,000,000.

That jump in the prospective tax take, he added, would have balanced the fiscal 1947 budget and provided a surplus, too, of congress hadn't voted—with some degree of presidential approval—measures adding $4,400,000,000 to earlier expenditure estimates.

The President set out the cost of the legislation, expressed in billions of dollars; as : Terminal leave pay, $2.4; increased pay for military personnel, $0.6; increased veterans pensions and liberalized benefits, $0.8; housing, excluding defense housing, net of $0.2; post office department pay increase, $0.2.

Of those measures, the president recommended only the two Philippine items. But he did not make any fight on others, and he put on blame on congress for upsetting his budget program by passing them.

Has Formula For Peace

NANKING, Aug. 3—(AP)—Government agencies boasted today that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek had suddenly found a solution for China's civil strife while government and Communist quarters quarreled over the circumstances of yesterday's aerial bombing of Yenan, Communist headquarters.

The government acknowledged the bombing but said it was directed solely at a grounded government plane which the Communists refused to return. The Communisst admitted the plane was destroyed but said their military headquarters also was attacked.

The nature of Chiang's last-minute formula for peace was not disclosed by the government Central News Agency, which announced it. However, General Marshall, special U. S. envoy, flew hurriedly to the summer capital of Kuling to confer with the generalissimo.

"I know President Chiang has found a ready solution, a political solution, at that—not one based on force," the government agency quoted Minister of Information Peng Hsueh-Pei as saying at Kuling.

Two Receive Star Ratings

L. J Banner and R. J. Sellers, of this city, has received notification from the Illinois Bankers Life Assurance Company of Monmouth, Ill., that they has been given a star rating by their company for exceptionally large production of business during the month of July The company conducted a special campaign during July in honor of its president, Eldridge H. Henning, in the form of a baseball game in which every general agent and local representatives was given a place on one of two teams as a player. Each policy represented a hit and a certain volume constituted a score. The two teams were called the Green Sox and the Pink Sox. Baseball terminology was used through out the campaign which represented a change from the military themes used by the company in its contests during the war.

Mr. Banner won a leaders' club contest receiving as an award an all expense trip for himself and Mrs. Banner to the convention in September.

Cool as Two Cucumbers

Shortly after noon Saturday—which was a "sizzler," it will be recalled—Mrs. Henry White, RFD 2, Green Ridge, brought to The Sedalia Democrat a green and yellow object in a sack that looked "as cool as a cucumber." The trite simile is appropriate, for that is exactly what it was—though whether the vegetable should be referred to in the singular or plural number remains a moot question.

Grown in the truck patch at the White residence, the oddity appeared to be two oversized cucumbers joined together in the manner of Siamese twins.

All of which inspires a riddle: What's cooler than a cucumber? Two cucumbers.

Hale Hubbard At West Point

The picture of Hale Hubbard, son of Lt. Col. Douglas Hubbard, appeared in the July 25 issue of the Versailles Statesman, Versailles, Mo., in which an article about him stated that he is now at West Point, where he reported July 1. There he was a member of the Sigma Chi, social fraternity.

Arrest Those Who Moved Mussolini's Body

ROME, Aug. 3—(AP)—The Milan police said today that the men who removed Benito Mussolini's body from its potters field grave had been arrested, but that the hiding place of the dictator's remains still was unknown.

Four men, police said, admitted taking the body last April, but declared that others had hidden it in a spot unknown to them.

The Italian news agency Ansa said a police communique identified the leader of the group as Mario Cana, a Neo-Fascist, who has been in custody for some time. The other three were arrested within the past few days.

Ex-GIs Form Roadblock

ATHENS, Tenn., Aug. 3—(AP)—A man identified by a spokesman at the McMinn county jail as a "member of the other crowd" was shot in the leg tonight by a patrol of a law and order committee set up after county officers were routed in an election dispute gun battle.

Otto Kennedy, a leader of an ex-GI group which bested an opposing political faction in a six-hour battle at the jail Thursday night, said a patrol car drew up to a group of four automobiles south of here and one of the machines blocked the road.

Kennedy said an occupant of the machine, whom he identified as Brown D. Shearer, brandished a gun at the patrol car and was fired on. He added that the man was in an Etowah hospital and his condition was not serious.

The other three cars drove away, Kennedy said.

Otherwise, he added, everything was quiet in the county.

Another member of the G. I. faction, said at the city jail, however, that "we are expecting an invasion. We are ready for it."

Activated, they said, by reports that the ousted officers might seek to fight their way back into the county, the winner in the election feud put an armed guard over the courthouse and manned a roadblock south of here.

The Daily Washington Merry-go-Round

PARIS—(By Cable)—The most important conversation of the entire Paris conference occurred not in the gold-bedecked hall of the Palace of Luxembourg, but in a private dining room when Jimmy Byrnes sat down with British Prime Minister Clement Attlee.

Significantly, they called in not treaty experts, but President Truman's special Palestine commissioner, Henry Grady; and this is what they talked about:

Attlee proposed to Byrnes that England would play ball with the U.S.A. on the plan to unify Germany, provided the U.S.A., in turn would play ball with Britain on its plan to partition Palestine.

At first, Byrnes winced at this trade. He told the mild-mannered prime minister of England quite frankly that he had direct orders from his boss in the White House against any partition of Palestine. He added, however, that he believed he could convince Mr. Truman of the wisdom of the trade. Tentatively, therefore, Byrnes accepted the Palestine - Germany swap, subject to White House approval.

But he also asked Attlee to name a definite date for moving the Jews out of Europe. Attlee promised action by September and then proceeded to put the heat on Byrnes for an early White House okay on the entire deal.

This puts Truman very much on a spot, since Jewish leaders in the United States vigorously oppose the division of Palestine into separate Jewish and Arab states. On the other hand, Truman doesn't like to repudiate his secretary of state. So he's between the devil and the deep blue sea.

NOTE—It is believed that Attlee came from London not so much because of Bevin's alleged illness, but to put over this Palestine-German deal. He considers it extremely important.

Official "Leak" Policy

Shortly after Jimmie Byrnes became secretary of state he got Washington newsmen riproaring mad by canceling the daily press conferences which secretaries of state had held ever since the days of Charles Evans Hughes and by further refusing to answer questions on such rare occasions as he did see the press.

Almost a year has passed since then—a year in which Jimmie Byrnes has learned a lot. Among other things he has learned that a well-informed public is his best ally when it comes to writing the peace and that he can't get a well-informed public without a well-informed press.

Jimmie came around to this point of view several weeks ago when he established an official "leak" policy. Having discovered that the Russians were "leading" to the press, the honorable Mr. Byrnes decided to outleak the Russians. To this end, his aides started holding amazingly frank press conferences. Almost nothing was held back. A play-by-play account of all secret sessions was given to newsmen.

Naturally, the Russians heard about this but Mr. Byrnes didn't seem to care much if they did. He was convinced his treaty policy was right and he wasn't afraid to have the world know about it. The climax came this week when the U. S. secretary of state made the unprecedented move of proposing that all meetings of the vital rules committee at the conference here be open to the press. Before the delegates could recover from their astonishment, they were knocked for another loop when M. Molotoff supported Byrnes' motion. The Russian foreign minister opined that, since the press had garbled Russia's position on the treaties, it was much better to have the press attend the hitherto secret committee meetings.

Thus was Woodrow Wilson's goal of open covenants openly arrived at. Deserted by its own author at Paris in 1919, the goal was finally achieved by James F. Byrnes at another peace conference in the same city 27 years later.

Intercepted Cable

From the intercepted cable department: Senator Burt Wheeler seems to blame his defeat in the Montana primaries partly to the fact that he was used by the Nazis as a political tool against F. D. R. in 1944. On July 15, one day before the Montana primary, Wheeler sent the following cable to Justice Robert Jackson in Nuremburg, Germany:

"Drew Pearson's broadcast yesterday refers to reports based on Goering testimony, charging a plot in which W. R. Davis allegedly told Goering that Senator Wheeler was another who could be counted on to help defeat Roosevelt and that I used propaganda prepared in Germany in my speeches. Earnestly appreciate an answer immediately to Butte whether any of these allegations are known to you or are a matter of record. (Signed) Burton K. Wheeler."

Justice Jackson, busy with his war crimes prosecution, waited two days and then replied inconclusively. The real fact is that the Justice Department has a large dossier of evidence on various Americans who were used by the Nazis, including not only Wheeler but John L. Lewis.

Though Wheeler is given the benefit of the doubt and probably didn't know he was being made a Nazi tool, his intervention on behalf of Nazi agent George Sylvester Viereck certainly puts him in a class by himself. When this columnist exposed the relations between Viereck and Senator Lundeen of Minnesota, Wheeler attacked this writer on the floor. It now develops that Viereck was paid $300,000 by Hitler to influence senators.

Conference Voting Line-Up

Here is the first secret vote of the peace conference for and against Russia. You can make a note of this line-up and be fairly sure it will remain exactly the same all during the Paris session, with one exception—Norway. The pro-Soviet countries, as shown by the way they voted on the chairmanship of the rules committee are White Russia, the Ukraine, Poland, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Norway and the Soviet Union. They will go down the line for Russia on all ballotting. The following group voted against Russia and can be counted on to follow that line regularly: Great Britain, China, Australia, Canada, New Zealand, Ethiopia, Greece, Brazil, France, India, the Netherlands, South Africa and the U. S. A.

Belgium, usually anti-Russian, abstained from voting because it's man, Paul-Henri Spaak, was up for chairman.

When you see this 13 to 7 line-up you can understand why Russia wants a two-thirds rule instead of majority rule.

NOTE—The big surprise of recent conferences has been Norway's support of Russia. In the New York United Nations meetings, Secretary General Trigve Lie frequently leaned toward the Russians, especially in the Iran dispute. Reason is that Norway, lying close to Russia, is worried sick over possible invasion.

Nazis on Trial Are Attractive to Tourist

By Hal Boyle

NUERNBERG, Germany — (AP) — The 21 members of the vanished Nazi hierarchy being tried here for war crimes have become the biggest tourist attraction in Germany.

They don't like it.

At each recess spectators crowd to the railing to get as close a look as possible at the men whose empire has come down to a prison cell and a seat in a courtroom box.

"Look at Hess!" someone exclaims audibly. "Look at Julius Streicher. He's eating a piece of bread!"

Particularly maddening to the defendants are spectators who stare at them through binoculars. This so enrages Alfred Jodl, the lean red-nosed former chief of staff of the German general staff, that on occasion he screws his hands together around his eyes as if he held a pair of field glasses himself and glares back at the offending onlooker jabbering angrily in German the while.

Brings a Laugh

This performance always brings an audience laugh, and angers Jodl even more.

It is strange to see these men standing trial for a world's misery. They look so harmless surrounded by wooden barriers and armed guards. And to read their defense briefs—if he hadn't read the evidence massed against them—a newcomer from another planet might think them a most virtuous, imposed upon and betrayed group of men.

Their long confinement has broken the cockiness of most defendants—they all have had a chance to tell their stories, and now as the purple or black-robed German defense attorneys present their final summaries, the defendants sit dully or stare moodily around the room.

Court is Weary

The eight-months tide of words has wearied the entire court, and the proceedings drone to the climax in a gathering inertia. Everybody seems word-bombed. Only during recess periods do the defendants snap out of their half-coma and exchange notes and brief jests.

Hermann Goering remains the most virile, commanding presence and the one who has won most courtroom respect because of his lack of hypocrisy and his continued allegiance to his dead fuehrer. Americans like loyalty in a man—even if he is serving the devil.

Goering has an almost benevolent profile, but when he turns his head you get a sudden shock as if you had dived into a woodland pool and came up to find yourself staring into the leering face of a satyr. The eyes have a thyroid intensity, the mouth holds a voluptuous cruelty and the skin of his cheeks hangs loosely over the lost fat.

Physicians have weaned him from the narcotics habit. He sits hunched forward with an American army blanket wrapped around his body. Sciatica troubles him.

Goering Shakes His Head

"He has lost interest," one courtroom attendant told me, "since his attempt failed to create a legend around Hitler. He feels the other defendants let him down."

Now when a German attorney speaks disparagingly of Hitler as a man who befuddled his followers and led his nation to ruin, Goering cups his face in his hands and slowly shakes his head.

The shadow of Adolf Hitler hangs heavily over the entire trial.

You can't escape feeling that if the chief architect of World War II were in the defense box, the world would more surely learn from his vainglorious life the lesson it must learn to keep the pattern of peace.

Benjamin Franklin was appointed the first colonial postmaster general at Philadelphia in 1753, and held the post 16 years.

Variety Fair

HOLLAND ENGLE who is the "Uncle Dan" of Variety Fair, Tuesdays and Thursdays on KMBC at 4:30 p.m., just about leads the field when it comes to years of broadcasting and personal attainment. He started out way back in 1921 when KDKA was first turning the spotlight on the business of broadcasting. Since then he has broadcast individual programs over fifty different stations and all the major networks. Engle has done almost everything in radio as a novelty pianist, violinist, sound effects, besides acting hundreds of parts. As for Variety Fair itself, the program makes for downright good afternoon listening.

From Cora a listener is anxious to find out when and where one can hear "Aileen Harris" ... Someone in Slater requests, "Where and when can she hear Clarah, Lu and Em? ... and "Is it possible to hear Margaret Mcbride this far west?" ... Maitland wants to know, "I wonder where Jake and Lena are?" ... Emporia asks, "Has the Gospel Singer left radio?" ... "Does Johnny Mercer have a radio show this summer?" from a listener in Lawrence ... and "Where can I pick up The Court of Missing Heirs?" from a listener in Kansas City. So how about it? Can you supply the answers?

Long Overdue

WHEN WE WROTE up the announcing staff some months ago, that was before Paul Taylor's return from the army. So right here and now, we're making up for lost time. Paul, you early risers know him well as the KMBC sign-on announcer, started out in Kansas City radio back in 1941. This was right after receiving his B.A. degree from Brown University in Providence. While in the service, Paul continued right on with his rado work at Lowry Field in Denver. He was heard on the Army Hour over N.B.C.; also announcing the Bands of the A. A. F. over the same net. When asked What was his childhood ambition, Paul said that "There were times—when a policeman's uniform looked attractive, but it didn't last."

Recognition To Tipton V-A School

Tipton school has achieved recognition as the largest Veteran Agriculture school in the state of Missouri.

A detailed article about the school, which appeared in a recent publication of The Tipton Times, is quoted below:

"Gordon Renfrow, state director of Veterans Education, Jefferson City, and Virgil Proffit, chief agricultural training officer of the Veterans Administration, visited the Tipton Veterans Agriculture class Monday night, July 29.

"The Tipton Vocational Agriculture Department now has six full-time teachers employed. The last two hired are Glen Mutti, Boonville, who was considered one of the most progressive co-agents in the state previous to his enlistment in the armed forces. The other new teacher is Preston McDaniel of Fortuna. Mr. McDaniel is now employed by the Federal Land Bank, St. Louis. He will begin his duties here August 12, Mr. Mutti to begin working August 1.

"There are 100 veteran students now enrolled in the Tipton Vocational Department. This is the largest Veteran Agriculture School in the State of Missouri.

Used As Model

"Mr. Proffit states that the Tipton school is being used as a model for other such schools to pattern after. The entire four-year course outline, has been worked out by Roscoe Gibson of the teaching staff and it will be submitted to other schools in the state to use in preparing their outline.

"Mr. Gibson states that he now has schools operating at Tipton, Bunceton, Smithton and Otterville and he plans to start another school in the very near future at Latham. He requests that other veteran students who wish to enter contact him or one of the other teachers immediately so they may be enrolled before the schools are filled and while there are additional teachers available. All teachers used in the Tipton Vocational Agriculture school are graduates of the Missouri College of Agriculture, and have worked in the agriculture field since their graduation. The Tipton Board of Education is hiring the best teachers available."

Sustain Veto of Tidelands Bill

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—(AP)—The House Friday sustained President Truman's veto of the Tidelands bill, thus killing the legislation.

The vote was 139 for overriding the veto and 95 against, but this fell 17 ballots short of the two-thirds majority required to enact a measure into law over the President's objection.

The action thus gave Mr. Truman a victory in a last-minute flare-up of discord with the 79th congress.

Kem Speaker At Picnic For Old Settlers

NEW FLORENCE, Mo., Aug. 3.—(AP)—The "New Deal" party, seeking "to curry favor of the Political Action Committee of New York, is in no position to aid Missouri farmers in solving their complex peace-time problems," James P. Kem, candidate for the republican senatorial nomination, declared tonight in an address prepared for delivery.

He spoke at the 49th annual Old Settlers picnic.

"Not only does the PAC have no real interest in rural problems," he asserted, "but that organization is riddled with communists and fellow-travelers, who place the attainment of their communistic ideas ahead of the welfare and the interests of the farmers of Missouri, or of any other state.

"I hope the time never will come when we in America shall have Sovietized farms, yet, today, the bureaucracy developed by the New Deal party has created a regimented rural economy, which they manipulate for political purposes.

Forced to Abide by Rules

"Today, under the New Deal, Missouri farmers are forced to abide by hundreds of rules and regulations promulgated by bureaucrats sitting in offices at Washington, a thousand miles away, who know little, if anything, about the conditions and the problems of this state's farm population.

"I am sure," he concluded, "that the farmers of Missouri are unwilling to throw away their heritage of freedom and of ever-increasing prosperity for the prospects of becoming members of a New Deal-PAC Sovietized farming system."

Two Men Are Electrocuted

PARSONS, Kas., Aug. 3—(AP)—Two men electrocuted and two others severely burned Friday at Strauss, nine miles east of here, when 33-foot steel shaft with which they were digging a small water hole touched an 11,000-volt power line.

The dead are Forrest Bradshaw, about 45, owner of a grocery store and filling station where the hole was being drilled, and Toney C. Waitrak, 23.

Treated at the Parsons hospital for burns on the hands and feet, were Shelby T. Mattox, 42, and Sherman Sturdefant, 34. Wiatrak, Mattox and Sturdefant, all employed by the Spencer Chemical Co., were enroute to their homes near St. Paul when they stopped to help Bradshaw.

The men were lifting the shaft into position when it hit the overhead power line.

Farmers Do Not Want OPA Prices

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 3—(AP)—The Missouri Farm Bureau Federation urged Friday that agricultural commodities be kept free of revived OPA ceiling prices.

The farm organization said in a statement that if the new OPA decontrol board would announce its intention not to put farm products under ceilings it would "restore the confidence of the American farmer to meet the food needs of the world through increased production and orderly marketing."

Present prices, it said, "are not out of line with prices which prevailed under OPA ceilings with the added subsidies." Previous controls were described as having limited production and marketing of food.

Given in marriage by her father, Mrs. Baker, nee Peithman, wore a gardenia white gown of duchess satin and tulle, fashioned with a fitted satin basque bodice, sweetheart neckline, long sleeves which tapered to a point over the hands, and a diaphanous tulle skirt which lengthened into a long, aise-wide train. Champion at ...

Jimmy Wilburn, above, the present dirt track champion heads the list of the drivers entered for the championship race meet to be held at the Missouri State Fair, Sedalia, Mo., August.. 18-25. Racing days at the fair will be the opening Sunday, August 18, and the following Saturday, August 24.

Thrill Day At Fair On August 25

The All-American Thrill Drivers To Furnish Program

Thrill day, the best to be staged at the Missouri State fair, was announced officially Saturday by Roy Kemper, secretary of the fair. It is to be provided by the famed daredevils of Frank R. Winkley's All-American Thrill Drivers. The date has been set for Sunday, August 25, in front of the grandstand.

Winkley, who brought these thrill drivers to Sedalia for their first post-war showing last year, provided the best of any thrill shows to be held at the fair since such shows came into existence. He will provide one of the most hazardous and sensational programs, lasting for two hours, both afternoon and night.

His troups introduced the famous bus jumps. That is, driving a sedan up a ramp at a terrific rate of speed and sending it hurling, along with the driver, through the air and over a transcontinental bus. Although this is one of the popular thrills, the roll-over continues in a position of prominence in the performance. He has not yet named the driver to take the car who will do the bus jump.

The driver will, at the proper time, twist the steering wheel of the car and cause it to catapult end over end, then side over side, and it goes through space and over the bus.

The full Thrill Drivers program follows:

Event No. 1, high speed multiple ski jumping in stock automobiles; 2, slide for life into a pool of flaming oil; 3, dynamite drive; 4, motorcycle flaming barrier crash; 5, Motorcycle trick and fancy riding; 6, Australian pursuit racing over the ramps; 7, high speed, high ramp driving; 8, brick wall crash; 9, automobile flaming wall crash; 10, automobile crash roll over. The eleventh, and last, event, will feature Jimmie James driving a car which will jump the full length of a bus.

"Sedalia, Mo.

"In line with the current interest in the swimming pool project, we desire to go on record as heartily endorsing such an advantageous improvement to the City of Sedalia.

"This is a time of planning for the future and what could be looked forward to with more anticipation by the parents and children alike in a post-war world than a spacious, adequate, modern swimming pool, which will greatly interest and envigorate them during their recreational periods and also draw many visitors from our surrounding community.

"Sedalia must never stand still, but constantly be moving forward in business, education and enterprice and the proposed swimming pool seems to be in perfect alignment with other advances that apparently are on the horizon for Sedalia.

Sport Scraps

(By D. KELLY SCRUTON)

HARDLY a month off and football will get under way at Smith-Cotton high school. Coach Ralph "Stub" Dow, is appealing to boys who are planning on going out for football to start getting themselves ready for hard workouts from the the time equipment is issued. Many of the boys have been doing some hard work to keep themselves in condition and should be ready to go into practice without a lot of trouble, while there are a large number who have those "summer vacation legs".

Otherwise, Coach Dow is requesting the boys to do some exercise, walking and soforth, to get their legs in condition for a hard season. Also get muscles in their arms, shoulders and stomach in shape for some real work.

Under the State high school athletic association rules, boys cannot be given football instructions during the summer and prior to the opening of school. Hence, Coach Dow cannot coach the boys, but they were told before school went on vacation how to take care of themselves and exercise. These last spring instructions are asked to be carried out, on their own, and for their own benefit.

HERE in 1946 we are getting all hepped up over the swimming pool. Just to think that forty-years-ago Sedalia was talking about practically the same thing. Back in those days, however, they wanted an atatorium because the swimming holes around Sedalia were scarce.

Today the swimming holes are even scarcer, but there are still several around. The present swimming pool, built more than thirty-years ago at Liberty Park, was really something in those days. BUT SEDALIA has GROWN, it's needs are too small for present SEDALIA.

It is appropriate to bring memories back and to inform the youngsters of Sedalia, THEY ARE NOT WRONG in ASKING for a NEW POOL.

An article on the natatorium appeared in the Sedalia Democrat of August 1, 1906, just forty years ago.

I have always said, I don't mind using letters sent to this desk which bear a legitimate signature but I refuse to use those critic letters which do not have a signature. I received on the past week by an admirer of "Skinny" White in his defense over the final game played in the Semi-Pro tournament. However, I feel the same as the writer in some incidents he refers to, but not all, what follows, is Mr. R. B. Cook's own ideas and does not express those of this column.

"Just a line to give you the facts about the final game, Saturday night of which you gave Pitcher White the blame for it all." (I do apologize for what appeared in the story which the proof reader overlooked. It came out "It was all White's fault when copy said 'wasn't' but that's that).

Continuing the letter, "I have played league and Semi-Pro ball all over Kansas and Missouri and Kansas City for about twenty years, so I feel I am qualified to judge same. In the first inning Evans was playing in with two men down and let a pop fly drop behind him for a hit and run. No fault of White's.

"In the third inning Bankhead went from first to third on a passed ball while McMackin was loafing, then threw wide to third. No fault of White. Fifth inning, two out Evans made an error on Jakoby, side should have been retired. No fault of White. Then Evans made another error when he let the all play him and let in two runs.

"Sixth inning, one out, McMackin threw ball into center field, also in the fourth Michaels let a ball get through him for a hit. Waters let a fly ball fall at his feet in centerfield. In another inning McMackin let a ball get away and let in another run.

"So you see White pitched a good game but errors put him in a hole all the time. In closing may I say I am not looking on one side but give White credit for he is a pretty fair country pitcher.

"I saw about half the games and enjoyed every one of them and the brand of ball was far above what I expected to see. It was a great tournament and hope you get it again in 1947. Yours, Just a Rabid fan. B. R. Cook."

Thanks Mr. Cook, of Versailles, I appreciate any letters to the sports desk and I print this letter not in criticism of any of the players. It is the way you saw the game. I can only speak for myself and I personally thing the whole team was defeated when Sammy House walked out on the diamond to start pitching. The old hustle wasn't in the Ramblers that appeared in previous games. It looked as if just one man beat them, and from the score and record, 18-strikeouts, it is hard to dispute this.

But the Ramblers have a far better ball club in these same players, than they played, Saturday night.

Browns Lose To Philadelphia 4-7

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 3—(AP)— Sam Chapman's second home run of the evening put the Philadelphia Athletics back in the ball game tonight and Buddy Rosar's second double in the tenth drove in two runs which were more than enough to win, the A's taking their second straight from the St. Louis Browns 7 to 4.

Pete Suder singled Rocar home to give the Mackmen a third 10th inning counter, but it wasn't needed as Dick Fowler, pitching in relief, didn't allow a Brownie to reach first after he took over in the seventh. Chapman's homers, which accounted for three of the Philadelphia runs, were his tenth and eleventh of the season.

Johnny Berardino, Brown second baseman who had been hitless his last previous 16 times at bat, nicked starter Don Savage for three straight singles and drove in two runs. Bob Muncrief, starting Brown hurler, was within two outs of victory when Chapman hit his tying four baser. He was knocked out in the 10th.

Mo-Pac Carmen To Play At La Monte

The Missouri Pacific Carmen baseball club will go to La Monte this afternoon where they will meet the V.F.W. team of that city. The Carmen wrangled a victory out of the La Monte team several weeks ago by a close score, so this afternoon's game should be well worth watching.

The Carmen have won their last five games and will be out today to make it six in a row. The starting lineup will not be announced until game time (2:30 o'clock) C. Poynter announced.

The local club will leave from Third street and Engineer avenue at 1:00 o'clock this afternoon.

Oklahoma Has Edge On 1946 Semi-Pro Title

Enidaris '46 Champs Automatically Enter' Norman Jaycees Also

WICHITA, Kans, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Dopesters say it's a 16-to-1 chance that Oklahoma—which has furnished six national champions and four runners-up in the past 11 years of the national semi-pro baseball tournament — will take home the 1946 non-professional diamond title.

Initial edge is the fact that two Oklahoma teams will compete in the national tournament opening here the night of Aug. 16, when professional baseball's Commissioner, A. B. (Happy) Chandler, will hoist the pennant emblematic of the 1945 championship and play for this year's title gets under way.

Sooner Players on Team

The Enid, Okla., Enidairs, Army winner of the 1945 title, automatically qualified for this year's tournament. The Norman Jaycees, winners of the 20th annual Oklahoma state tournament just ended, will bring a roster of young Oklahoma University players, coached by the Sooner school's baseball mentor, Jack Baer.

The Sooners are the Big Six baseball champions.

Eight other state champions already have been certified to the national tournament, including the Bemiston, Ala., nine, the Denver, Colo., M & O Smokies, Millard, Neb., The Wichita, Kans., Boeing Bombers, the Waco, Texas, Dons, Milwaukee, Wis., Nerads, Ithaca, N. Y., American Legion and the Frankfort, Ind. Stars.

Twelve other winners will be certified direct to the national from state tournaments at Portland, Ore., Sacramento, Calif., Tacoma, Wash., Grand Rapids, Mich., Adel, Iowa., Danville, Ill., Ocala, Fla., Columbus, Ga., Asheboro, N. C., War Shoals, S. S., Columbus, Ohio, and Perth Amboy, N. J.

These Must Be in Playoffs

Already certified to Bi-State playoffs from which the winner will be qualified to the national tournament are six state champions, including the Laurel, Mont., Farmers Union; Kansas City, Mo., Burnetts; Omar, W. V., Boosters; Mesa, Ariz, Realtors Jackson, Miss., Sanders; Franklin, Mass., Benny Oilers.

They will meet the winners of the state tournaments, respectively at Wilder, Idaho, Fort Smith, Ark., Covington, Va., Reno, Nev., Baton Rouge, La., and Windsor, Vt.

Four other national entries will emerge from the bi-state playoffs between state title winners at Pikeville, Ky., and Greenville, Tenn.; Portland, Me., and Manchester, N. H.; Newport, R. I. and Middletown, Conn.; Salt Lake City, Utah, and the New Mexico qualifying event at El Paso, Texas.

Auto Racing Returns To State Fair

Jimmy Wilburn, The Successor To Late Schrader Is Entered

Automobile racing, banned since the first year of the war, returns to the Missouri State fair on Sunday, August 18, and again on Saturday, August 24. The mighty monarchs of the dirt tracks will be out to instill in the automobile racing fans the excitement they enjoyed in those pre-war days.

John A. Sloan, racing impressario and president of the Racing Corporation of America, announces that he will have an impressive array of racing talent on the track those two days. Entries will include some of the best known drivers in the country.

Jimmy Wilburn, dirt track champion who always thrilled the Missouri crowds in his speeding attempts to beat the late Gus Schrader, is headlining the entries. He will be driving his Riverside-Offenhauser Special that he has ridden to victory in many contests this season.

Others who are expected to be in the lineup the opening day are: Hal Cole, Southgate, California, speed demon, who is taking the same stand Wilburn had in his younger days against Schrader. Cole is after the big money offered in the races and wants to gain the crown which is now enjoyed by Wilburn. He drives an Offenhauser; Russ Lee, of Minneapolis, driving a McDowell; Shano Fitzgerald, Miami, Florida, in his Scofield; Bob Sledge, Houston, Texas, in his "Hal."

There is Crash Waller, well known to local fans, of Blakely, Ga., in a Cragar; Billy Snyder, Minneapolis, another daredevil of the dirt track, in his Black Cat Special.

Roy Kemper, secretary of the Missouri State fair, announced the track will be in excellent condition. Sloan, a veteran of the war, is bringing to use the new calcium chloride chemical that was found highly successful during the war in doing away with dust on the airfields abroad. This will add much to making the races more enjoyable to the fans, without having to sit through a dust eating three-hour racing program.

Man 'O War's World Record Is All Tied Up

Historian Wins The Mile and 5/8 2:40.4 At Hollywood Park

INGLEWOOD, Calif., Aug. 3—(AP)—Historian tied Man 'O War's world record for the mile and five eighths today as he won the $50,000 Sunset Handicap, closing day feature of the Hollywood Park meeting the big five year old gelding traveled the distance in 2:40.4 to win going away from Paperboy and Triplicate.

46,445 See The Race

The Woolford Farms' horse was backed down heavily by the crowd of 46,445 and paid only $5, $3.70 and $2.80, and Harry B. Warner's Paperboy, which closed at 11 to 1, returned $8.60 and $5. Triplicate, Fred Astair's winner of the $100,000 Hollywood Gold Cup last week at a mile and one quarter, paid $3.60.

Historian was always right on the pace, even though he allowed War Valor, to open up a five-length lead as the field turned into the back stretch. Down the backstretch, however, the sturdy bay gelding by Larwinmea, took coimmand, drew out as they made the far turn, and was complete master down the stretch. He won by five lengths and wasn't breathing hard as they brought him into the winner's circle.

Triplicate Had No Excuses

Triplicate had no excuses. He couldn't match the pace at all and Nanby Pass was gaining on him for the show. Paperboy, a gallant eight year old, ran a beautiful race with his light weight of 110 pounds as against Historian's 121. He made a bold move on the far turn and as he came into the stretch it appeared for the barest instant that he might overtake Historian. The winner picked up speed, however, and the two were five lengths apart through the stretch.

The victory was worth $37,150 to Historian.

Behind the first four they finished in this order:

Ohaverry and Biscailus, the So. American gray horses; Autocrat, Jimmy John and War Valor.

James Flies To Race

Ovie Scurlock rode the winner. Basil James flew here again from New York, as he did for the Gold Cup, to ride Triplicate, and arrived just in time to reach the park from the airport, aided by a police escort.

Scurlock said he knew he had the race from the start. "We should have won last week," he said, "but this time we were all set. I turned him loose at three-lengths and boy he really poured it on. No, I didn't know we were tying the world record, but I know he really flew all the way when I gave him his head."

James said Triplicate simply did not run his race, and Mel Peterson, aboard Paperboy, said the old timer ran a nice race but simply couldn't get to Historian, "who is quite a horse, believe me."

Biscauliz, who was in the lead for a time, tired under Ralph Neves.

BRAVES HEAT AND SATURDAY CROWDS TO GET FIRST TICKET TO "DOWN MISSOURI WAY"

Mont Gowens is taking no chances on a full house. He brought his chair and umbrella down in front of the Uptown Theatre early Saturday morning prepared to sit it out until the box office opened for ticket selling on "Down Missouri Way" Sunday afternoon. The show management decided a shave would be in order and contacted N. P. Meyer, who is shown preparing Gowens for a better public appearance.

Red Cross Corner

It has been quite some time since the subject of knitting was mentioned in this column. However, the time for another session of bundling and packing is drawing near, and we have been asked to remind all Red Cross knitters to finish the articles in hand and return them to the office. If the garments are already completed please return them at once. If incompleted, either return them as is, or call the Red Cross office, 618, and report on the approximate time it will take to finish them. Since the present quota of knitted garments must be completed, we are urging the cooperation of all Red Cross knitters.

Due to the fact that the Bothwell hospital has been packed with old and new cases during the past month, the Red Cross Nurse Aides, now operating on a reserve status, have been called on for duty many times. Certain members of the corps have been giving much needed assistance to the registered nurses at the hospital almost continuously. We think that everyone will be interested to know that V.-J Day did not mean an end to the activities of this group of ARC volunteers. For the work of the nurse, both registered and volunteer goes on and on.

Likewise, V-J Day did not end the work of the Production Department. The office has just received a new consignment of material to be used in making 850 infant sleepers, and 850 pairs of mittens. The material is printed flannel, very attractive as to pattern, and it is pleasant to know that the little cold, undernourished babies of Europe will be more comfortable this coming winter. We know from past experience, the quality of the garments made by the women of Sedalia and Pettis county. Not one badly made article of clothing has ever gone out of this office. Every garment is well made, and immaculate when it is shipped. This is a fact which we all should know and keep in mind, for it is not a record of which every chapter can boast. When you read about the miserable plight of the children of Europe, you can remember that many of these children, are now clad, and soon will be clad in clothing which proudly carries the label: "American Red Cross, Pettis County Chapter, Sedalia, Mo."

Mr. and Mrs. John Brandt, well known residents of Sedalia, are today observing their 59th wedding anniversary at their home, 1406 South Carr avenue.

Mr. Brandt, who will be 82 in October, was born five miles east of Cole Camp, in Benton county. Mrs. Brandt, the former Miss Sena Meyer, now 80, was born five miles the other side of Cole Camp, in the Cheese Creek neighborhood. They did not know each other in their home county. Both came to Sedalia to seek employment, met and were married here, and have continued to make this city their home.

They have three children, Lily, who is Mrs. C. M. Jones, of Franklin, Ind., Goldie, who is Mrs. Ernest Frimel, St. Louis, and Lee Brandt, 1315 South Carr avenue. A grandson, Lee Brandt, Jr., died while in service.

Mr. and Mrs. Frimel came to Sedalia Saturday to be here for the observance today, as did Mrs. Lee Brandt's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Wohlsecker, of Higginsville.

The Homan reunion has been postponed until a later date because of polio.

Miss Mimi Hale and Miss Dorothy Ann Reid, assisted by Mrs. Leslie Hale, were hostesses recently at a surprise party honoring Miss Daisy Culley, a former Sedalian who now lives in Texas.

Truman Interest Highlights Election

By D. Harold Oliver

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—(AP)—President Truman's attempt to defeat Democratic Rep. Roger C. Slaughter in his home state of Missouri—and his risk of prestige should Slaughter win—holds top interest in seven state primaries this coming week.

Six of the primaries come off Tuesday — in Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, New Hampshire, Virginia and West Virginia. Delaware Republicans have a primary next Saturday. Four Senate seats are involved in the seven primaries.

Highlights

Other highlights of the week will be:

1. Senator Harry F. Byrd's try for a third Democratic nomination in Virginia against the opposition of the CIO-PAC and his first primary challenger since he went to the Senate in 1933.

2. A Kansas prohibition repeal scrap. Harry H. Woodring, former secretary of war under Franklin D. Roosevelt, seeks the Democratic nomination for governor. He favors repeal of the state's 65-year-old dry law.

Here is a summary of the outstanding fights in each state:

Missouri

President Truman planned to go to Independence, Mo., his home, this week end to cast his vote Tuesday in the 4th district, adjacent to the 5th, Rep. Slaughter's district.

The president contends the 41-year-old congressman opposed nearly all of the presidential legislative recommendations as a member of the House Rules committee.

To Mr. Truman's statement that if Slaughter is right the president is wrong, Slaughter replied:

"I accept the challenge with all its implications, including a fight to determine the future course of the Democratic party, for the president has made the race in the 5th district of Missouri a test case so far as the country is concerned."

Mr. Truman said he asked the Pendergast organization to back Enos A. Axtell, a former navy lieutenant, who also is supported by the CIO-PAC. Labor is divided, however, as most of the railroad brotherhoods are favoring a third man in the race, Jerome Walsh.

Briggs Has Two Opponents

"Labor," the brotherhoods' newspaper, said Slaughter is "as reactionary a Democrat as can e found in Congress." Walsh, a former OPA attorney, was defeated by Slaughter in the 1944 primary.

Senator Frank P. Briggs (D), who succeeded to Mr. Truman's Senate seat, faces three opponents for the Democratic senatorial nomination. One is B. Marvin Casteel, St. Joseph, a lieutenant colonel in the recent war and former superintendent of the state highway patrol. The others are Robert I. Young, a frequent candidate from St. Joseph, and James Patrick Quinn, Kansas City, new to politics.

On the Republican side, James P. Kem, Kansas City attorney, is running for the senatorial nomination with party organization support.

There are four others in the GOP race: former State Senator Ray Mabee, a lieutenant colonel in the war; former Rep. William P. Elmer; William McKinley Thomas, St. Louis Shoe employe, and Herman G. Grosby of St. Louis.
